First and foremost, I want to thank you for your warm welcome to Inglewood Unified. I also want to thank you for your hard work, diligence and commitment to the students and families of Inglewood.

Many people have asked, "What are your immediate plans for Inglewood Unified?" I believe before any major decisions or major changes are made it is critical for a leader to spend time getting to know both the strengths and areas of growth of the community. I have embarked on a 60 day listening and learning tour. Some of the important aspects of this tour are: visits to every school site, speaking with advisory board members, speaking with students, speaking with community members, speaking with parents and speaking with staff members at all levels. At the end of these 60 days I will issue a report of my findings. A more detailed explanation of the tour can be found on our website.
